★ FOR GOVERNOR

“Hoosiers expect a leader who believes in using common sense and bipartisanship to solve problems and make Indiana the best state it can be.

I am running for Governor to do just that.”

A Lifelong Educator and Champion for Children

As a public school teacher, principal, superintendent and the last elected State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Jennifer has always been a tireless advocate for our children. As State Superintendent, she took on politics that were negatively impacting our schools and fought for what was right for kids, teachers and parents. Jennifer demonstrated fiscal responsibility by using taxpayer dollars effectively and efficiently while managing over half of Indiana's state budget.

A Story of Serving the People—Not a Party

Jennifer was first elected statewide as a Republican in 2016, but as Republicans ushered in extreme, out-of-touch policies and divisive politics, the Republican Party left many of its voters—including Jennifer—behind. Jennifer spent the next several years traveling Indiana to hear about the real issues Hoosiers face. After listening to countless fellow Hoosiers, Jennifer switched parties. She saw only one party truly fighting for the people and sharing the values she believes in—public service, excellence and empowering others. She is now a proud Democrat.

A Common-Sense Approach for Everyday Hoosiers

Jennifer's running for Governor of Indiana because she's tired of the supermajority's focus on fringe issues that have nothing to do with the real issues facing Hoosiers. She believes it's time to stand up to elect a leader who puts Hoosiers first. She will bring common sense and bipartisanship back to the State House. Jennifer will stand up to policies that are dismantling public education, stripping Hoosiers of their rights and freedoms, and leaving rural communities behind.

Extremist Politics.

Voters are clearly dissatisfied with the direction of the state after right-wing extremists passed a first-in-the-nation post-Dobbs strict abortion ban, underfunded our schools and neglected to take action on a burdensome gas tax. Suburbs trending Democratic elected more Democrats to the State House in 2022 and are primed for statewide change.

Building a Lasting Operation

Jennifer understands the importance of moving away from cyclical, candidate-centered infrastructure toward year-round sustainable organizing. She is committed to being a leader in this effort and building an infrastructure of Democratic support that will be there long after this election. Early investments in building name recognition with a talented campaign team will equip Jennifer to demonstrate her strength as a candidate by mobilizing voters to end two decades of one-party rule in Indiana.

Tapping into an Electorate Ready for Change

A lifelong Hoosier who grew up on a family farm in New Castle and has lived in urban Indiana, Jennifer knows the diversity of Hoosier voters and their stories. With a proven statewide candidate like Jennifer who can speak directly to Hoosiers, she is the candidate to break the Republican stronghold and restore common sense to Indiana.

While GOP candidates race to embrace extreme rhetoric and outrageous policies in their primary, Jennifer will stay the course as a common-sense candidate ready to take on any Republican nominee. Her campaign has already seen a swelling of support from teachers, parents and working Hoosiers ready to organize for Jennifer on a grassroots level not seen in Indiana since 2012.

A Pro-Hoosier, Pro-Growth Agenda

Radical voices have quickly taken over Indiana politics in the past few years. Under their failed, unpopular agenda, businesses and people are fleeing Indiana because of divisive, anti-growth policies. Jennifer will take them on directly, supporting laws—like lowering our gas tax—that support everyday Hoosiers and standing up to laws that take away health care rights so we can make Indiana a place where all can live, work and thrive.
